

Mao Dies; Power Struggle Seen

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tsetung, who led the Communist revolution to victory in China in 1949 and dominated the world's most populous nation for the next 27 years, died early today, Peking announced.

He was 82 and had been slowly failing for many months.

Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said the founding father of the People's Republic of China died at 12:10 a.m. (12:10 p.m. EDT Wednesday) "because of the worsening of his illness and despite all treatment, although meticulous medical care was given him in every way after he fell ill."

The broadcast did not give the nature of the final illness.

The announcement of Mao's death was delayed for about 16 hours, the same length of time that intervened before the death of Premier Chou En-lai was announced last Jan. 8.

The White House and the U.S. State Department in Washington had no immediate comment on Mao's death.

Mao's death was expected to intensify the power struggle that has shaken Peking intermittently for years and that flared up with renewed intensity after Chou's death.

There has been no designation of his successor as chairman of the Chinese Communist party, the country's most powerful post, which he had held since 1935.

Presumably Premier Hua Kuo-feng is next in line since he was also named first vice chairman of the party when he was raised to the premiership five months ago. But his elevation is not assured.

Others who appear to be in the running are Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, a leader of the radical faction of the party; her proteges, Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao, Wang Hungwen and Yao Wen-yuan; party vice chairman and defense minister Yeh Chien-ying; and Chen Hsi-lien, commander of Peking units of the 3½-millionman Liberation Army. Wang also is a vice chairman of the party.

The party constitution provides that a plenary session of the 195-member Central Committee elects the new chairman.

A peasant's son who became one of the 20th century's greatest revolutionaries, Mao not only deeply influenced the lives of his countrymen but also became a model for revolutionaries in many of the backward regions of the earth.

A classical poet, calligrapher, hard-headed politician, guerrilla strategist and audacious thinker, he led the long struggle which ended with the triumph of communism in China and then broke with the Soviet Communist party in a schism that split the Communist world.

His passing raises the compelling question of how long his own brand of communism — called Maoism — will survive in China. Much will depend on how those who follow him interpret and apply his ideals and teaching.

A believer in the masses and permanent revolution, Mao spearheaded many revolutions during his long and turbulent lifetime. In one, he trampled upon and sought to destroy the rule of the centuries-old elite — the landlords, rich merchants, intellectuals, officials and warlords — whose privileges were defended by 25 centuries of Confucian thinking.

He aimed to turn over this power to the poor peasants, city workers and soldiers.

Besides ripping up the tightly sewn fabric of Chinese rule, he tore great rents in its long dormant society, insisting that the new proletarian overlords revolutionize their personal lives. He tried to make them into a new kind of human, skilled in warfare, in farming, in industrial labor and in politics.

His own version of Marxism was heavily salted with nationalism, influenced by ideas from the Chinese past, and grounded in the long suffering peasant.

On the educational front, he sought to educate the poor at all levels of society, making it easier for them to enter advanced schools while leaving the already educated with the common sense and earthy experience of the peasant.

Born in the village of Shaoshan in Hunan province Dec. 26, 1893, Mao grew up, as did all China's nationalist leaders, in a period of great historical excitement. As a youth, he saw the monarchy overthrown in 1911 by followers of Dr. Sun Yat-sen. While still a young man, he became one of the 13 founding members of the Chinese Communist party in 1921.

He was 42 and at the peak of physical and mental powers when he assumed leadership of the party in 1935 during its harrowing, 8,000-mile "Long March" from the east coast to Yenan in Shensi province.

Reduced to a mere handful — 120,000 began the retreat under the battering of the armies of Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and only 20,000 finished it — he succeeded through discipline, political skill and good luck in rebuilding the Communist army to a strength of one million by the end of World War II in 1945.

Despite the efforts of the United States, which dispatched Gen. George C. Marshall to mediate, the civil war which had long been simmering burst into full flame in 1946. Three years later, at the age of 56, Mao proclaimed the People's Republic from the high red walls of the Forbidden City in Peking.

Ford, Carter Go After Ethnic Voters

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

While Jimmy Carter trekked through a Polish neighborhood in Pittsburgh, President Ford in the White House also was seeking the ethnic vote, entertaining a Polish-American delegation and declaring a Casimir Pulaski memorial day.

Casimir Pulaski was a Polish general who served the colonies in the Revolutionary War. Ford told the Polish-American leaders at the White House that he is naming Oct. 11 a Pulaski memorial day, and he praised the revolutionary general for his "heroic sacrifice."

Ford also told the Polish leaders Wednesday that the White House gates would always be open so they could discuss their problems with him. And they did, telling Ford they were concerned about Polish jokes on television, a need for Polish-

Americans in high-level federal jobs and conditions in Poland.

In Pittsburgh, Carter donned a T-shirt emblazoned with "Polish Hill" and toured the heavily Polish neighborhood of the same name. The Democratic presidential candidate was greeted by enthusiastic crowds as he posed with parochial school children on the steps of a Catholic church and received a ceremonial kiss from a priest.

Later, in a speech in Washington to the national convention of the Jewish organization B'nai B'rith, Carter said the Ford administration often has "ignored basic American values and a proper concern for human rights."

Carter said the United States has "responded inadequately to human suffering" in Bangladesh and other undeveloped nations and ignored repression by the governments of such allies as South Korea.

He promised to restore the morality he said is lacking under the leadership of Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, and he vowed to work for the emigration of Soviet Jews.

Kissinger later showed up at the convention and declared, "Morality is not going to be an issue in this campaign by our side."

As Carter continued his hectic campaign pace, Ford generally followed his campaign strategy of remaining at the White House.

But before unveiling Casimir Pulaski memorial day, Ford called a hasty outdoor news conference to accuse Carter of a lack of compassion for FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

Carter said Tuesday that if he were president he would have fired Kelley for receiving gifts and favors from FBI subordinates. But Carter declined to say if he will fire Kelley if the Democrats win the White House in November.

Ford said he thought Carter's refusal to say what he would do about Kelley was contradictory to his original criticism. And he argued that in criticizing Kelley the Democratic nominee displayed a lack of compassion because the FBI director's late wife was terminally ill at the time of the incidents.

"I'm confused on the one hand by his flip-flop on this issue and I am very disappointed by his lack of compassion on the other," Ford said, praising Kelley for "straightening out a very difficult situation" at the FBI.

Kelley has repaid $355 to the FBI for material and labor used to make improvements at his home. Kelley said he had not known FBI money was used to make the improvements.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said, "Ford's comments are a cynical distortion of Gov. Carter's remarks and an apparent attempt to skirt the real issue involved."

Moving on to Columbus, Ohio, Carter worked Wednesday night on the theme of party and national unity, saying that as president he will be able to bring the country together.

At a reception in Euclid, Ohio, he said, "Think about Nixon and now President Ford, a decent man, timid. They talk about fiscal responsibility. The last two budget requests by the government were over $50 billion in deficit."

"I don't care how you look at it — tough management, balanced budgets, low inflation, high employment, low deficits, and the Democratic party stands up well. I don't intend to destroy the reputation of the Democratic party if I'm elected."

Meanwhile, Claude Wild Jr., a former Gulf Oil Corp. lobbyist and a central figure in a federal probe of illegal campaign contributions, said he had made a mistake when he claimed he gave $2,000 in 1970 to Sen. Bob Dole, Ford's running mate.

Wild apologized to Dole for the earlier statement in which he said he had given Dole the money from a legal Gulf "good government" fund in 1970 to pass on to other GOP Senate candidates.

"I have been in error and consequently have done a serious disservice to Sen. Dole," Wild said. The significance of such a legal contribution rests in the fact that Dole had never mentioned any such money in his required campaign financing reports.

Dole called Wild's original charge "an unfortunate incident," adding, "We're moving ahead with the campaign."

Deny Transplants Out Of Date

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Dr. Christiaan Barnard, the South African surgeon who performed the first successful heart transplant operation, says such procedures are not out of date.

Barnard, who performed nine heart transplants, described as "nonsense" recent statements by other heart specialists that transplants had been replaced by heart bypass operations.

Pension Bonus Plan Could Be Killed By Senate Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wants to kill a 1 per cent bonus on cost-of-living pension increases for retired federal civil service and military personnel.

Under present law in effect since 1969, federal retirees receive a 4 per cent pension increase whenever the cost of living goes up 3 per cent and remains at that level for three months. The extra 1 per cent was intended to compensate retirees for the time lag in computing cost-of-living pension increases.

But its operation led to a 72 per cent increase in federal pensions since 1969, compared with a cost-of-living increase of 56 per cent.

The elimination of the bonus was approved Wednesday by the Senate by voice vote and sent to a House-Senate conference that is deciding whether federal judges, the president's Cabinet and top federal executives earning $37,800 a year or more will get a pay raise of about 4.8 per cent Oct. 1 along with all other federal employees.

Both the House and Senate have voted to deny the cost-of-living raise to legislators. But the House went further to cut off the adjustment this year to the judiciary and top executive branch officials.

Elimination of the 1 per cent kicker on federal employee pensions was proposed by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., who said it would save nearly $200 million in the next fiscal year and $3.8 billion by 1980.

Hollings' proposal was adopted along with a modification by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., to replace the quarterly cost-of-living pension adjustments with semi-annual changes.

The Associated Press revealed in February 1975 that the formula, designed to keep federal pensions in step with inflation, actually propels them increasingly ahead.

When the Civil Service Commission sent its proposed new formula to Congress last May, it credited The AP for bringing the formula problem to public attention.

The House last month voted 238 to 143 in favor of a bill to end the kicker for civil service retirees, but it failed to pass under a procedure requiring a two-thirds majority.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, who opposed the elimination of the kicker, said it had been an inducement to early retirement, saving the government money and making jobs available for others.

Carter Campaigns In Ohio, Illinois

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jimmy Carter, who says he is no "bigshot politician," is preaching Democratic unity to party leaders, builders and workers as he campaigns in Ohio and Illinois on his way to a torchlight parade tonight with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The Democratic presidential nominee, midway through an opening campaign week often designed for television, said he is making a special effort as well to stress appearances in neighborhoods of ethnic Americans who hold to traditions of the lands from which they came.

"I want to be sure that I emphasize the importance of diversity in our country," Carter said Wednesday night. "There's nothing wrong with that. The preservation of pride in one's own heritage, background, history ... is not a weakness, it's a sign of strength."

Carter said today that if elected he will seek enactment of legislation to shut down federal agencies and programs at specific intervals unless they are specifically extended by Congress.

He did not detail terms of such a bill, although he noted that one now before the Senate stipulates that programs would be terminated every five years unless Congress renews them.

"If elected, I will actively support a strong sunset law covering most of the bureaucratic establishment and covering virtually all tax expenditures as well," Carter said in a statement issued in Columbus. "I want a law which will shut down outdated agencies and programs once and for all. I intend to secure enactment of such a law."

Carter said the specific provisions and timetable of the sunset bill must be worked out by Congress. He said the Republican administration opposes such legislation.

While praising diversity, Carter also said it is time to unify Americans. He said that as president he can do that and to that end he asked Democrats for redoubled efforts, "even sacrificial efforts, above and beyond what you've ever done before" to win the election.

"I'm not a bigshot politician," Carter said, standing on a bench and using a portable speaker outside the Slovenia Society Home in Euclid, Ohio. "I came from nothing to someone who won the primary elections and the nomination very quickly."

"I don't owe the special interests a thing. I owe the people of this country everything," he said.

Knights Of Columbus Give $1,000 To Brooks-Yates

The first annual K of C "How Do You Measure Up?" campaign for retarded children was consummated with the presentation of a $1,000 check for a security system to be installed at Brooks Yates School.

Receiving the check was Mrs. Fannie Brooks, a member of the Pickaway County Association for Handicapped Citizens, and Jay Clevenger, director of the Mental Retardation Program. Presenting the campaign proceeds were A.R. Kamler, campaign chairman, and M.J. Fath, Grand Knight of the Local Council 5297 of the Knights of Columbus.

The 1976 "How Do You Measure Up?" campaign was a tremendous success throughout the entire state of Ohio. The total donations amounted to $160,340 of which the Fr. John S. Hannan Council campaign supplied $1,035.

The local campaign owed its success largely to the generosity of the citizens of Pickaway County and to the cooperation of the Kiwanis Clubs of Circleville and Ashville, the two Sertoma Clubs of Circleville, the Pickaway Plains LaSertoma Club, the support and help of the Pickaway County Association for Mental Retardation, and the members and families of the K of C members.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined today amid disappointment over the market's mixed showing on Wednesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell more than 3 points in the early going, and losers led gainers by close to a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers noted a letdown in the market's mood after the Dow stalled once again near the 1,000 level Wednesday.

They also reported uneasiness over a Wall Street Journal report that oil exporting countries might post a larger price increase at year-end than had been expected earlier.

Today's prices included American Airlines, down 1/4 at 14 1/2; Beatrice Foods, off 1/8 at 26 1/2, and Continental Oil, unchanged at 37 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average lost 3.65 to 992.94.

Youth Hurt When Jeep Rolls Over

Four people were injured in two auto accidents Wednesday, according to reports at the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Brent V. Bozman, 16, 5020 East St., Ashville, suffered a bone chip to the top part of his right foot when the jeep he was driving rolled to its side in the Teays Valley High School parking lot.

The Harrison Twp. Squad transported Bozman to Berger Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Deputy Sheriff Billy Huffman, who investigated the 7 p.m. Wednesday accident, said Bozman was driving east in the parking lot when he attempted to make a left turn.

The jeep flipped to its side, catching Bozman's foot under the door. He was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident.

Deputy Huffman charged Bozman with reckless operation.

Three people suffered minor injuries when their car crashed on fog-covered London Road 7:20 a.m. Wednesday. But the driver and passenger of another vehicle were not injured when they crashed into the parked car of a rescue worker at the same place.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Dixon said Theresa L. Meyers, 16, 202 Park Drive, Orient, was driving south on London Road, four-tenths of a mile north of the Route 316 intersection, when she drove left of center in a curve.

The vehicle skidded on loose sand on the left side, crashed into a ditch and fence, and spun around.

Miss Meyers suffered a bump to her head, passengers Cheryl L. Meyers, 13, suffered a bump to her head, and Karen Cochran, 1250 Clark Drive, Orient, suffered a minor injury to her right shoulder. All were treated at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, and later released.

Deputy Dixon said Howard Rowland, Route 1, Orient, apparently parked his vehicle off the right side of the road to offer assistance when another southbound car spun out of control in the same place and crashed into his truck.

Driver was David Phelps, 17, 772 Darbycreek Road, Orient, and passenger was Gary Phelps, 16. They were not hurt.

Police Investigate Burglaries

Circleville Police investigated two breaking and enterings in the early hours this morning.

The first occurred at the residence of Ms. Gail Weaver, 119 N. Scioto St. According to the report, Ms. Weaver left her residence at approximately 8:30 p.m. Wednesday evening, and when she returned home she discovered that her residence had been broken into.

Ptl. Joe Stevenson found two large holes in the rear screen door and two small pry marks on the inside door where entry was gained. Upon checking the premises, Ms. Weaver and Ptl. Stevenson could find nothing missing.

At 2:19 a.m., while on routine patrol, Ptl. Stevenson discovered an apparent break-in at the Nicholas Drive Elementary School. Entry was gained through a rear door on the east side of the building. Two pry marks approximately one inch apart were found on the door. Nothing appeared to be missing at the time the report was taken.

Town Applies For Public Works Grants

South Bloomfield Council voted to apply for grants under the Federal Public Works Assistance Program to complete two projects in the village.

Council will apply for money to renovate the council house and to install storm sewers, curbs, and gutters throughout the village.

John Gurunkemeyer, a Cincinnati architect and associate of the program, told council members Wednesday that Pickaway County should qualify for the program because of a 7.8 per cent unemployment rate.

The grant, if awarded, would fund the entire projects.

William Murphy was appointed as a councilman by Mayor Albert Roese to replace Robert Ison, who resigned last month.

Council announced that local traffic laws, which have been codified with the Ohio Revised Code, would become effective Sept. 19. Fine penalty will be stiffer in most cases, they said.

An agreement was reached with the Ohio Department of Transportation to replace traffic signs in the village under provisions of Title 49 of the Highway Safety Act of 1973.

A traffic survey will be conducted at the intersection of Route 316 West and Route 23 to determine the need for a traffic light there. Council agreed to conduct the survey because of the high accident rate at the intersection.

In other business, council okayed second reading of the proposed income tax ordinance, which would become effective Jan. 1, and issued two burning permits.

The next meeting will be Sept. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Members present were Mayor Roese, Clerk Fern Bozman, and councilmen Richard Wysiecki, Russell Toole, Raney Brady, William Murphy, Ronald Kanipes, and Marvin Webster.

Political Managers Show Contrast

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio campaign managers for President Ford and Jimmy Carter are both seasoned political professionals of Irish descent, but the similarity ends there.

Keith McNamara, 47, is a soft-spoken Columbus attorney, almost bookish in appearance, but with a friendly, easy going manner.

Dan Horgan, 45, is a roughhewn, down to earth type who comes from New Jersey political wars and sounds like it.

Both have impressive credentials. McNamara, a former sixth term state legislator, orchestrated Ford's smashing Ohio primary victory in which the President captured 91 of the 97 GOP delegates.

And despite the best efforts of Ronald Reagan's organization all of them stayed in line behind Ford at the Republican National Convention.

"I think we increased our credibility significantly," McNamara said of the Ford organization showing in Kansas City.

Horgan spent June 8 in New Jersey, handling an uncommitted delegate slate that gave Jimmy Carter a sound thumping while the former Georgia governor was scoring an easy triumph in Ohio.

After the primary, Carter signed up

Horgan, but not for New Jersey where he formerly served as executive director of the state Democratic Party and in the administration of Gov. Brenda Byrne.

The Atlanta command post assigned Horgan to Ohio as part of a nationwide strategy to avoid ironclad links to various state party leaders who might eventually be in a position to make demands on a newlyelected President.

The Carter people—Horgan included—don't put it quite that way, of course. But in Ohio Horgan replaces Ted Celeste, brother of Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste who is expected to make a strong bid for governor in 1978. Ted Celeste was given a job with the national Carter staff.

Horgan plans on a staff of 50, with about 10 recruited from out of state. He says Carter will make as many as eight visits to Ohio, a critical state for any presidential candidate.

McNamara will work with a paid staff of 10 or 12, all from Ohio, and hope for a big volunteer effort. "I would like to see the President here for three or four visits," he says.

Both men have had their share of disappointments.

Horgan was New Jersey campaign manager for Sen. George McGovern in 1972, and lost his job with Byrne in 1974 because of political differences.

McNamara lost his seat in the legislature, at least in part due to a reapportionment of districts. He also directed Gov. James A. Rhodes ill-fated "jobs and progress" bond issues campaign last year.

Testing The Limit

What happens when a caravan of drivers decides to test the national speed limit by driving two and three abreast — at 55 mph — for a 50-mile stretch of an interstate highway? About what one might expect — they collect a large following.

Stephen Long and five friends did just that, leaving Ann Arbor, Mich., on Interstate 94 for Detroit and keeping their speed at 55 all the way. For much of the trip their vehicles effectively blocked all lanes of the highway.

After four miles they had collected a following of 45 vehicles. By the time they reached Detroit, an estimated 600 vehicles were behind them. Some got by, by passing on the shoulders of the road. "It was amazing how obnoxious people were," Long reported.

Not so amazing, really. It has long been noted that the 55 mph limit is little observed on many highways. In fact, it might have been more revealing — and certainly less aggravating — if the Michigan caravan had counted the number of vehicles it overtook on its test run, rather than the ones which caught up to it.

Colonel's Birthday

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Today is the 86th birthday of Col. Harland Sanders, the culinary inventor and finger-lickin' founder of Kentucky Fried Chicken. Get out those buckets and let the drumsticks roll!

He's "feelin' just fine," Colonel Sanders says, in spite of "a touch of arthritis. In fact, it touched me so hard not long ago I spent three months in bed."

But that problem's licked almost as clean as fingers now, thanks to chiropractic care ("I've been going to a chiropractor for 60-odd years") and a change of diet. The colonel now eats four cans of sardines a day, along with plenty of pinto beans, to increase his uric acid ("I got this advice from a book called 'The No Aging Diet' - you get it, honey, and arthritis won't getcha.")

Not that Sanders has given up eating his Kentucky Fried Chicken, the poultry cooked in a secret potion of spices which made him an almost overnight millionaire at age 66.

"I still eat my chicken four or five times a week," he says. It may sound self-serving, but you've got to believe the colonel when he says it's still his favorite food - followed by sugar-cured hickory smoked ham and seafood, "with the accent on lobster." He often cooks himself a lobster for his 6 a.m. breakfast. Goes real nice with the sardines.

Almost everyone in the civilized nations knows what Colonel Sanders looks like. Huge bucket-shaped signs emblazoned with his picture rise above Kentucky Fried Chicken emporiums in 44 countries, which sell more than two million containers of chicken a day, in some 5,500 franchised operations. He resembles Santa Claus in a white Palm Beach suit, posing as an aristocratic Southern gentleman. But Sanders doesn't feel like an aristocrat.

"No, no, I sure don't. I'm just what I've always been - a simple farm boy grown up." Remember, he reminds, he sold his "danged business" in 1964 for a couple-million dollars, a lifetime salary and a post as world-traveling quality controller of the franchises.

And most of the money he's made goes to charity. "Today," he says drolly, "I'm lucky we have food stamps to fall back on..."

The impetus for Kentucky Fried Chicken was established 81 years ago: "My daddy died when I was five years old, and it was up to me to do the cooking for the younger children and my mother. She sewed clothes for people, so she could buy our groceries. I'd stand at the stove, and my mother told me what spices to put in the pot to season whatever I was cookin'."

The next half-century in Harland Sanders' life was relatively unimportant: He quit school at age 12, when algebra reared its ugly numerical head, and went on to hold a saga of jobs. Name a position, he probably held it. He was a street car conductor, insurance salesman, railroad fireman, steamboat promoter, service station manager, and a few dozen other things. "I liked all of 'em while I did 'em, but then they got boring. What I was really interested in was food."

When he was running the service station and a sort of truck-stop restaurant attached to it, the colonel's specialty was fried chicken. People came from miles around to eat his specialty, made notable because of a blend of 11 spices he used to coat the chicken.

But it was hard to keep up with the clientele because every chicken took about 35 minutes to cook in a Dutch oven.

"Then along came the pressure cooker," said Sanders, "and I fooled around with it for a while and found a way to go from raw to finished product in seven minutes. Now I could cook 180 pieces of chicken at one time, and the juices were sealed in and it was better than ever."

In the 1940s, Sanders took to the road with his pressure cooker and a big can of spices, and showed restaurateurs around the country how good his product was. He sold them the spicemix, showed them how to do it, and collected a four-cent royalty on every chicken they sold. That's how the most successful fast-food operation in the world was born.

Now Colonel Sanders is an extremely wealthy man (and the people who bought out the business are multi-millionaires), but he still travels nearly 300,000 miles a year, promoting his product and tasting it, to make sure it stays as good as it should be. He gives his money to children's causes - "I love children, have two daughters myself, and five grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren, and if they don't quit, right where they are, they're gonna fill up the state of Florida."

Colonel Sanders has also established scholarships at eight colleges for ambitious students. His only stipulation is "if they start smokin' cigarettes or drinking alcoholic beverages, the scholarship stops. As a sixth grade dropout myself, I want to help learners, not players."

He has no religious objections to smoking and drinking, however.

"I'm a Christian, and I believe in doin' right by your fellow man," said Sanders, "but I'm not one of those born-again Christians or anything like that. My problem was always cursing, till about four years ago when I asked God for forgiveness and swore I wouldn't curse again. Only problem with that is I started with a 6th grade vocabulary, and when I stopped cursin' I gave up half of THAT. I can't hardly get anything done any more."

"But you can't be pious all the time," he adds - "not around this chicken shack."

There will be lots of celebrations for Colonel Sanders' 86th birthday this week, in New York and Chicago and Louisville, Kentucky Fried's headquarters and Harland's home. He'll attend them all and have fun. His philosophy of life:

"Workin' is better than rustin', so I'll keep workin'. I've got 14 more years to finish this century, and then I may retire. I want to have a few years more as a senior citizen..."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Perhaps it is unfair, but it's amusing and informative, a lesson to be appreciated, when you contrast the excited, lively stock market forecasts of a few months ago with the deadly dull market that ensued.

The summer rally, the promises of a market rising on an ever-strengthening economy, the return of investor confidence and all the other ingredients of those forecasts now look as weary and seedy as the lawns that were planted at the same time.

It wasn't an exciting summer at all, and at least one large firm concedes this. Argus Research Corp. observes that "the past six months has been a boring period..."

Most analysts, however, have their sights, astigmatic as they might be, set on the future, and they see nothing but excitement ahead. Rested and eager for action, they feel the whole country feels the same way.

The presidential election will be a spur to activity, they say. The market has established a base and now is ready to move — upward, of course. We're getting inflation under control. Personal income will rise. Confidence has returned.

Yes sir, the very same observations revealed by a quick survey of the summer's forecasts prior to their being dumped. Why, nothing has changed in those letters, nothing at all, except they seem more excited.

Will the market ascend on their outpouring of air and ink? Or will it continue to squirm about in the upper 900s of the Dow Jones industrial average? Nobody knows for certain, and only a few have a very good idea, and they usually keep their own counsel.

Some institutional investors, for instance, have a fairly good idea of what the price of particular stocks is likely to be because they do so much of the trading in those stocks.

A study made for the House Committee on Banking, Currency, and Housing, for example, maintains that in 1975 the trust and investment division of Morgan Guaranty Trust bought 31 per cent of all International Nickel shares traded.

Prof. Roy A. Schotland of Georgetown University Law School, who wrote the paper said this wasn't usual. Morgan's net purchases of Kaiser Aluminum amounted to 38.5 per cent of all trading, and 28.6 per cent of trading in Manufacturers Hanover.

Nothing wrong about this, says Schotland, but he does suggest we must reflect on the impact that one firm can have on pricing. Morgan's integrity, however, is unsurpassed, he declares.

Still, you can't help but recognize the rather puny character of the efforts made by many of the regular market commentators if the institutions aren't listening to them. And they probably aren't.

Debate Scheduled For Philadelphia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, will hold the first of their three campaign debates in the old Walnut Street Theater in Philadelphia, White House sources said today.

The date for the first of the campaign debates had been set earlier for Sept. 23.

In 1883 Prof. William Graham Sumner of Yale said, "Such is the forgotten man. He works, he votes, generally prays, but always pays." The phrase was made popular by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

City Council, meeting in regular session, unanimously agreed not to pay a $354 hospital bill charged to the city by a Columbus surgeon and hospital. The bill was for services rendered after a suspected car thief was shot by Circleville Policemen when he attempted to flee on foot.

Walter Harris, superintendent of Ashville schools for seven years, resigned his post to accept a new position with Wellington Exempted Village Schools.

Circleville Firemen were routed out of bed at 3:50 a.m. to douse a small fire at the American Hotel. Circleville Police discovered the fire when they went to the hotel to investigate a report of an intoxicated man in the hotel.

Circleville Sports fans could enjoy "all-star" wrestling at the Fairgrounds Coliseum Sept. 18 at 8:30 p.m. The card featured Big Bill Miller vs. Jim "The Goon" Henry, with Lone Eagle vs. Ali Pasha in the main event. For the wrap-up, it was Mars Bennett going against Adelo Antona in a lady (?) wrestler feature. The show was to benefit the sterilizing equipment at Berger Hospital, and it was being staged by the Lions Club.

A spokesman for the DuPont Company flatly denied rumors that the new Circleville DuPont plant would be manufacturing cosmetics. The spokesman said, "the proposed plant cannot manufacture cosmetics since we have never been in that business and we have no intention of going into it."

The Cliftona Theatre was featuring world's championship boxing films along with their regular schedule of films. Fight fans could see, for four big days, Randy Turpin vs. Sugar Ray Robinson, with highlights in slow motion.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is it true that some germs have learned to defend themselves against antibiotics?

Miss M.O., La.

Dear Miss O.:

It is true that some germs that have been bombarded with antibiotics have changed their "living patterns" in order to survive. Bacteria constantly treated with certain antibiotics have taken on characteristics that make them harder and therefore more resistant to some antibiotics.

Consequently, pharmaceutical manufacturers, under the guidance of chemists and scientists, are constantly seeking new antibiotics to combat the "resistant" strains of bacteria.

I am in my early 50s and have been married for 35 years. I recently found that a tube-like structure protrudes from my vagina. I am afraid to consult my doctor for fear that it may be cancerous. Can you tell me if this is serious?

Mrs. R.S., Pa.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Many women, especially those who have been married for a long time and have had children, may develop what is known as a prolapse of the vagina. In essence, this means that the muscles and the ligaments that support the vagina, the bladder, the uterus, and the wall of the rectum may have lost their elasticity and strength. The result is that there is a falling down of these tissues.

In most instances, surgery can completely cure the problem and relieve the discomfort associated with it.

At the present time, your greatest problem is not your physical condition, but rather the emotional implications that are terrifying you.

In essence, you are consulting a doctor when you write to me. I am glad to furnish some kind of assurance to you. My greatest contribution, however, will be to encourage you to see your own doctor. He knows you best and he is in an ideal position to relieve your anxiety and begin a constructive program that will lead to your physical and emotional recovery.

Congressmen Deny Selves Pay Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be no cost-of-living pay raise this election year for members of Congress.

The Senate voted 46 to 25 Tuesday to exclude Senators and House members from an automatic pay increase due Oct. 1 to all federal civil service employees.

The House had voted 325 to 75 last Wednesday to exclude not only Congress but also federal judges, Cabinet members and other top federal officials earning more than $37,800 a year.

The Senate, however, in adopting an amendment by Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, agreed to lift the salary freeze for all but senators and congressmen.

The ultimate pay raise fate of judges and top federal officials will await decision of a House-Senate conference on the billion-dollar legislative appropriation bill for fiscal 1977.

The exact amount of the federal pay raise, due automatically Oct. 1 unless blocked by Congress, is yet to be determined, but it has been estimated at 4.8 per cent. That would have raised the salary of members of Congress from $44,625 to $46,750 a year. The current salary reflects a 5 per cent automatic raise last year.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the Senate legislative appropriations subcommittee, defended the pay raise for all officials, including members of Congress.

He said that if the Taft amendment, allowing the raise for everyone but members of Congress, were adopted "there will be 14 White House staff aides running around earning more than senators."

The debate included discussion over whether Congress members, if they lacked "the guts" in an election year to vote themselves a pay raise, should deny it to other top government of-

Balloon Rally Scheduled

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The All-Ohio Balloon Rally and Air Show will get off the ground next weekend, weather permitting.

Upwards of 50,000 spectators are expected to crane their necks skyward while 20 or more hot air balloons from across the nation fly over central Ohio.

The multicolored balloons will lift off at 7:30 a.m. and in the late afternoon Saturday and Sunday. The early morning and late afternoon takeoff times provide the best wind conditions for balloon flying.

An air show Sunday afternoon will feature performers from an international air show, skydiving, sailplaning, aerial acrobatics and stunt flying in old airplanes.

There will also be arts and crafts displays and sidewalk sales in the downtown.

Dear Editor:

The 1976 production of TECUMSEH! is over. People came from all over the world to see the show. It is a good way of showing our fine heritage and history to other people and nations. We had 71,000 people in attendance this year. Thank you, Pickaway County, for your financial support and attendance. Thanks, too, for stopping by after the show. I enjoyed talking to you. Dear Editor:

Once again the Circleville High School yearbook staff has wound up another year of advertising. And again, our city's merchants have unselfishly given their time and money in order that what we feel is an important part of high school can be made possible.

We are sure those who have gone to Circleville schools, and other schools as well, realize the true value of a yearbook and the memories it contains. But do they realize that without the help of that city's merchants these memories probably would be forgotten?

Therefore, we feel that our gratitude must go to all who have helped us this year and will, hopefully, continue giving such a wonderful response in the coming years.

Sincerely,
KELLY A. STEELE

Miss Rebecca K. Ater Weds Clyde Steiner Jr.

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE J. STEINER JR.

The wedding of Miss Rebecca K. Ater and Mr. Clyde J. Steiner Jr., took place 7 p.m., Aug. 14, in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Steiner, Clarksburg. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mildred Johnson, Clarksburg. The Rev. Barry Bennett performed the double ring service.

Miss Joy Holloway, pianist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Paul Jones. She was attired in a full length white gown with Venetian lace trimming the V-neckline and cuffs of the long sleeves. Lace outlined the high waistline and the Aline skirt flowed gracefully to a chapel train. An open camelot headpiece held the bride's chapel length veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses, gardenias and baby's breath. Her only jewelry was a heart shaped diamond necklace.

Miss Sherry L. Boggs was maid of honor for her cousin. She wore a cream colored dacon polyester gown with a pink and brown floral design. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, pink roses and baby's breath and wore an ivory rose necklace, a gift from the bride.

Miss Beth Ann Johnson, sister of the bride, and Miss Heather J. Steiner, sister of the bridegroom, were flower girls.

Mr. James R. Grabill served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Ernest L. Steiner, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Harold R. Herman, uncle of the bridegroom.

A reception in the Steiner home followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Rhonda L. Herman, an aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Evelyn Bradford, an aunt of the bride.

The bridegroom graduated from Adena High School and is employed by Chicago Bridge and Iron. The couple now resides at 4th St., Box 149, Clarksburg.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Harmless' Fantasy Is Harassment

DEAR ABBY: If I were a Catholic, I'd go to confession and get this guilt off my conscience, but seeing as how I'm a Baptist, I'm writing to you instead.

I'm a grown woman, but I've been acting like a school girl about a man in town. I became infatuated with him two years ago, and I haven't been able to leave him alone since.

I've sent him anonymous love letters, cards and poems, and I've even called him on the phone to hear his voice, but I always hang up right away.

I've waited on street corners just to catch a glimpse of him, but I've never spoken to him. He knows someone has a crush on him, but he doesn't know who.

Abby, I can't get this man out of my mind. I even dream about him. Is it wrong to enjoy a little harmless fantasy?

Sometimes I hate myself for pestering him like I do, but I can't seem to help myself. Just writing this has made me feel better. Thanks for listening.

FULLY GROWN CHILD

DEAR CHILD: It's not "a little harmless fantasy" to call a man on the phone and hang up. And sending anonymous letters, cards and poems can make him feel threatened and uncomfortable.

You are guilty of harassment, which is punishable by law. I urge you to leave the man alone, for his sake and yours.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a small one, but it's causing a lot of disagreement between my husband and me. I'm 23 and he is 27.

I have a 6-year-old brother who my husband feels should say, "Yes, Ma'am" and "No, Ma'am" to me, and "Sir" to him.

I strongly disagree. Abby, I don't want a brother of mine saying "Ma'am" to me, no matter what age he is.

I've asked a lot of people how they feel about this "Ma'am and Sir" business and have gotten mixed reactions. I'd like to know how you feel about it.

NOT "MA'AM" IN MOBILE, ALA.

DEAR NOT: In Iowa where I was raised, children addressed adults with "Ma'am" and "Sir" to show respect for their elders.

In the South, years ago, it was mandatory for servants to use "Ma'am" and "Sir" when addressing their employers. (Some still do.)

Since you're from Alabama, I can understand your objections. Your husband obviously wasn't raised in the South.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, my husband's brother died. His widow now claims that she is no longer related to any of my husband's family.

How about her children? Aren't they still my nieces and nephews? And aren't they still the grandchildren of her deceased husband's parents?

She is getting married again, and even though she will have another husband and another name, I still feel that she is my sister-in-law, but she feels otherwise.

Please straighten this out.

CANCELLED OUT

DEAR CANCELLED OUT: If your signature reflects your feelings, don't try to maintain a family relationship with your former sister-in-law. Technically, she is no longer related to her deceased husband's family, but her children will always be related to them.

Commune Kids: Just Like Others, Yet Different

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

They are children who sometimes know several adults as their parents. They are children who at an early age perform household and community chores. They are children who take part in decisions long before others their age.

Commune kids: Youngsters who live with their parents, brothers and sisters and other adults and children under one roof much in the tradition of an extended family. Some are the sons and daughters of the counterculture generation of the past decade. Others are offspring of very straight middle-class parents.

But they all share one thing in common: they are being raised in an unconventional way because their parents no longer think the traditional, two-parent household works.

And though communal living may seem fraught with pitfalls, especially to those raised in the classic nuclear family, some social scientists say the commune youngsters are developing well. They believe these children often are more selfsufficient, realistic and better behaved than children raised in traditional ways.

Commune parents couldn't agree more.

"The commune has been really good for her," said Tilda, the mother of 2½-year-old Shana. "She gets a lot of different things from different people — things George and I couldn't give her. She already has a broad background, not because she's a genius child, but because of the diverse people in her life."

Shana and her parents live with four other adults in a 20-room house in a New York suburb. The house members, like many commune dwellers, shun publicity and did not want their entire names used.

Matthew Harris is the 6½-year-old son of a social worker and a university chaplain. They live on a 100-year-old farm overlooking orchards and fields in northern Maryland. Three other adults and a boy Matthew's age also live in the 10-room, Victorian farm-house.

Matthew is puzzled when he visits his grandparents, because they don't share chores around the house as his group does.

"He's had a chance to experience very broadly and test skills with a variety of people," said Kathryn Harris, his mother. "He's self-confident and knows it and can explore new situations with a confidence I never had."

"Matthew's a very self-sufficient child. He usually has something to say about decisions regarding him, and his opinion is taken with varying degrees of credibility."

Part of the reason it may be surprising that commune children seem to be thriving, is the free-love and drug image the word "commune" evokes from the general public. Certainly it's a unconventional way of life and the number of youngsters being raised this way is small.

But the "drug freak" image of communes is a hangover from the 1960s. It no longer applies to most.

Some have developed into homes for everyone from banking executives and ordained ministers to schoolteachers and dress designers.

In fact, the Special Approaches in Juvenile Assistance program in Washington, D.C., places runaways in many urban communes.

"Most communes set limits," said Dr. Kenneth Keniston, chairman of the Carnegie Council on Children. "They may not be traditional ones, but they set limits."

At The Farm, an agrarian commune of 800 or so in the rolling foothills of southwestern Tennessee, children are raised in a rather old-fashioned way: respect your parents and walk the straight and narrow.

"We tell our kids where it's at," says Stephen Gaskin, the bearded San Francisco dropout who founded the 1,800-acre community over six years ago. "I think the idea of letting kids go crazy until they're 6 years old and then putting them in public school where they have to snap to right now is a funny way to treat a kid."

Children on The Farm, when not in the commune's state-accredited school, are free to play most of the day if they're tiny tots. They work with the group's many crews if they are older.

Mail is delivered daily by 16-year-old Barbara MacQueen on horseback.

"It takes me a couple of hours to deliver all the mail," she said. "There usually are stacks and stacks of pieces."

She lives in a large compound with others her age. Two married couples live there to help guide the young adults.

"A lot of teens come there from the outside who don't have parents, so we really need the presence of a family," she said.

Over at the stables Katherine Moore, 13, gently coaxed a mare from a stall so her day-old foal could be fed.

"We lived in Berkeley, Calif., before we moved here," said Katherine, who has warm, brown eyes and ready smile. "I never even touched a horse there."

That was three years ago. Now she can shoe a horse and helps give riding lessons to other farm members.

This is not to say that there aren't problems for commune children. Some commune observers report children living in such isolation barely know what plumbing or electricity are, have never watched television or heard a radio and don't know how to shop with money because they've never been to a store.

And there are even a few celebrated horror stories. John Rothchild and Susan Wolf, authors of "The Children of the Counterculture," tell of children who experience sex before age 12, either with an adult or each other, take drugs and become bored and listless from too much time and too much freedom with none of the limits Dr. Keniston and other psychologists say children must have.

But, adds author Wolf: "In the many communes we visited, we saw no skirt-clutchers or thumb-suckers, no leg-biters or couch-hiders, no victims of stage fright, no children for whom parents gave the apology, 'It takes them time to warm up to strangers.'"

There are few limits for the children of Yea God, a spiritual commune of 40 in the lush hills of New York's southern tier. Yea God children may wander around the 70 acres of mostly undeveloped land, swim in the large fresh water pond or sit in the sandpile near the great communal dome. They do not read books, listen to music or watch television.

"I like it here," said 6-year-old Sunshine, who lives in a teepee with her mother. "I can stay outside as long as I want. But I like the pond best."

Sunshine, a name given to her when she joined the commune, does not use her real name. She said she sometimes pulls weeds from the large vegetable garden near the front gate or goes exploring in the woods with other children her age.

She wore a long, cotton floral dress that almost reached her bare feet. Large, red marks from insect bites dotted exposed parts of her body.

"It's fun here. The people are fun," she said.

There also are few limits for Alphi, an 8-year-old who lives with two other children and seven adults in a house not far from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He shares a bedroom and a toy area near the kitchen with the other boy and girl.

His parents share a bedroom with another woman. When asked about this, Alphi shrugged his shoulders, and returned to a junk heap not far from his house where he spends most of his time alone, idling.

But there are limits for 5-year-old Murray Richards and 6-year-old Corly Stein who live with their parents and another family in a middle-class commune in northern New Jersey.

These children participate in all household chores. Their parents, as a group, designate mealtime and bedtime. The children are allowed to create their own playtime once chores are finished. Both children can cook complete meals and shop with ease in any store.

Many commune youngsters do not stand in awe of naked bodies because their shower and bath sessions are communal, either all men, all women or both. Many others, particularly those living in rural areas, know about birth and death because they very often see farm animals dying or giving birth to their young. In some communes, they are also permitted to be present during a human birth.

"A lot of parents in the communal situation say that children are primarily people — perhaps less sophisticated and less competent," said Bennett Berger, a sociologist at the University of California. "And, if they want to smoke dope and if there's no demonstrable harm, that's okay. If they want to have sex and there's no demonstrable harm that's okay. If they fight, then they must settle their own disputes because that's what life is all about."

Council On Aging Accepts New Members

The Pickaway Council on Aging, Inc. met at the Methodist Good Shepherd Church Service Center, with Frances Pritt presiding. There were 19 members and four guests present.

Florence Jones, membership chairman, made a motion that we accept the following for membership; Leona Berger, Wanita Norman, Virgie Nelson, Rev. William Hill, Minnie Strawser and Fannie Brooks. It was seconded by Pearl Porter and carried. The following persons will be voted on at the October meeting: Leon Van Vliet and Emma Curlett.

Ardath Lynch, executive director of the Central Ohio Area Agency On Aging, reported that the county of Delaware proposal for Title V Grant was submitted to the Ohio Commission On Aging because it was the only proposal to meet the deadline date. There is $225,000 for Title V for acquisition and renovation of a building.

Volunteer Show Airs Tonight

Milton G. Rector and Robert Moffitt will present viewpoints on positive rehabilitative approaches in tonight's airing of the Volunteers in Criminal Justice series to be broadcast at 7 p.m. over Cable Channel 6.

If you missed the first series even though you tuned in at 7 p.m. Tuesday night it was due to misadjusted fine tuning on your set. The series did begin promptly at 7 p.m. in full color on Cable Channel 6.

Tonight's series is divided into two half-hour segments. In the first, Milton G. Rector, President of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, speaks with authority about the need for re-evaluation of our criminal corrections system.

He points to the key needs within institutions, the economic factor, their isolation from the community and their inability to provide adequate training for re-entry to the community.

He then points out some alternative programs which seek to harness community resources in rehabilitation, such as the Des Moines, Iowa and Pontiac, Michigan group models. He stresses the belief that we must stop using needed tax dollars to build un-needed institutions.

Robert Moffitt, Director of Partners, Inc., a volunteer juvenile program in Denver, Colorado, presents a brief explanation of the philosophy and history of his program during the second half hour.

Moffitt, a former Peace Corps volunteer, developed Partners in 1965 while a student in seminary as an alternative for juvenile offenders.

Moffitt gives the case histories of two boys, showing the dynamics of the one-to-one relationship and how that relationship continues between the youth and his sponsor after the program officially terminates.

Due to the intense volunteer involvement, Partners can offer 24 times as much contact with youth as can be offered by traditional probation services.

Sneek-A-Peek AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

With school and other activities in full swing again, some of our young patrons don't have as much time for leisure reading as they did during the summer. If it is hard for you to finish what you start lately, why not let short stories see you through your busy days?

You'll find a variety of subjects and styles from which to choose in the Children's Room. Younger school children will enjoy "Now You Can Read to Yourself", a group of stories carefully selected by the Child Study Association for new readers. Suitable for all ages is "Let's Read Aloud" which contains the works of Kenneth Grahame, E. Nesbit, Esther Forbes, and numerous other notables.

And please don't forget about Kipling's "Just So Stories", Charles and Mary Lamb's "Favorite Tales from Shakespeare" (822), and "Howard Pyle's Book of Pirates". These books are still as good as ever!

Changed Jobs Bill Given Shove

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Humphrey-Hawkins jobs bill, a major plank in the Democratic party platform, now are pushing a watered-down version of the measure because the original proposal met key opposition.

Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the sponsor of the bill, is trying to get the House Education and Labor Committee to approve the revised measure today. The backers then face the problem of getting it on the floor and sent to the Senate and approved there before Congress adjourns for the year on Oct. 2.

The committee passed an earlier version in May. However, that bill was blocked by the House leadership from coming to the House floor after the measure attracted a lot of political lightning.

The Republican National Convention used the bill as a prime example of what the GOP considered the tendency of congressional Democrats to spend huge amounts of tax money and to expand government. And 60 of the 81 Democratic freshmen asked the House leadership not to bring up the costly bill because it might hurt their re-election chances.

Under the bill, the president, Congress and the Federal Reserve would take various steps aimed at stimulating private industry to produce new jobs. To further close the unemployment gap, there would be public service jobs to employ those unable to find work elsewhere.

The Ford administration claims the bill would cost $30 billion annually. Others estimate the cost from $8 billion to $16 billion. It also has been criticized by some supporters of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, and some liberal economists have said it might be inflationary.

Since the early summer, Hawkins, organized labor and civil rights organizations have regrouped to revise the bill. That revision is up for committee approval. An aide to Hawkins said the revisions have been endorsed by Carter campaign aides and are being promoted with vigor by the AFL-CIO and other groups.

These are the key changes:
—The goal of getting unemployment down to 3 per cent within four years would be for adults only. The original 3 per cent goal was to include persons between the age of 16 and 20 as well as adults. By comparison, the August unemployment rate was 7.9 per cent.

—The bill's mandate to plan ahead for balanced growth in the economy with full employment and minimal inflation would apply only to government planning. The original measure held the prospect of government planning for private business.

—An anti-inflationary section was inserted to set the goal of keeping the annual rate of consumer prices at the level they are at the time the bill is enacted into law.

—Providing government jobs to persons who can't find other work — the so-called "last-resort" jobs — would be delayed until two years after the bill takes effect. These would be mainly lower skilled jobs.

In 1820 Ohio ranked 12th among the states in the number (4,723) of free Negroes, but in 1850 it held 6th place with 25,279.

Transportation Subsidy Set

Pickaway County will receive almost $2,000 subsidy for the transportation of mentally retarded students enrolled in community programs.

The subsidy is a portion of the $661,500 appropriation provided by Amended Substitute House Bill 155, which sets aside a total of $2,646,000 for each of the fiscal years of 1975 and 1976.

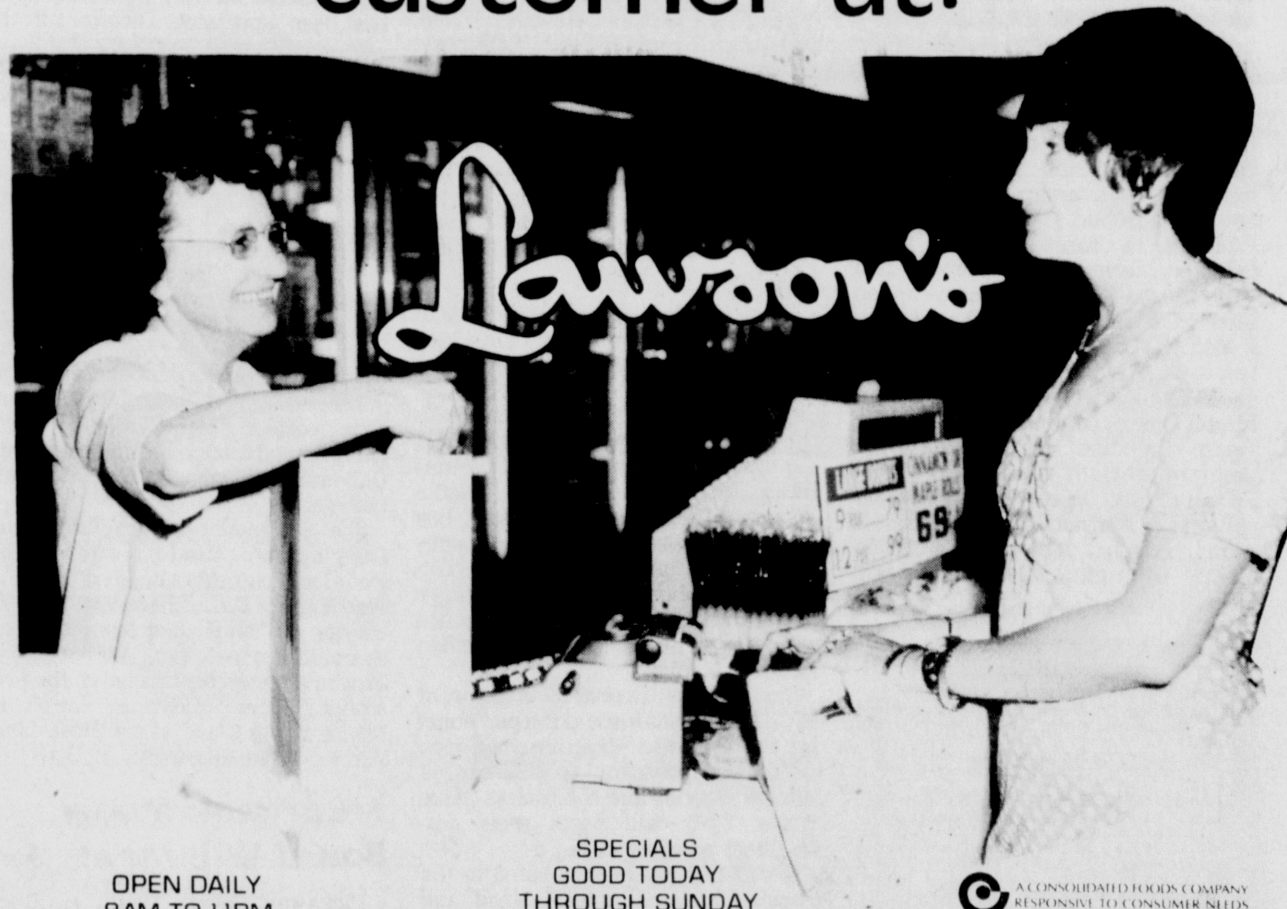

The distributed funds were for April through June of this year, or the fourth quarter.

The reimbursement is 31.4 per cent of the total transportation costs, according to Jay Clevenger, director of the Brooks-Yates School.

The percentage of reimbursements, and amounts received by each county, generally change each quarter since transportation costs will vary, but the allocation will remain the same.

The amount of dollars each county program receives is determined by dividing the quarter's allocation by the total county reimbursable transportation expense to find the total percentage of the reimbursement, then giving each county that per cent of their total.

Tigers Host Cavaliers Friday

If you are looking for excitement and plenty of action, then make plans to be at Tiger Stadium Friday night when Chillicothe plays host to Chillicothe in the season grid opener for both clubs. Chillicothe will be moving into Roundtown Friday with nothing in mind but to avenge last Year's opening loss to the Red and Black gridders on the Cavalier's turf.

But, Chillicothe is also ready to prove that last year's win over the AAA Cavaliers was no fluke and will be out to prove it when the initial collision takes place at 8 p.m.

Circleville scouting reports on the Chillicothe pre-season shows that the Cavaliers appear to be much improved over last year — especially offensively.

It will be a varied offense displayed by Chillicothe including T, wing, slot and Power I. They run well and mix in sprint out and play action passes. The Tigers will have to stay on their toes as the Cavaliers are a big-play team and go for the long gainer.

Their running game is led by Mike Farrow, 5-foot-10, 170-pound, who knows what to do with the ball and has been clocked in the 100-yard dash in 9.8 seconds.

The Cavalier offense is directed by left-handed Brent Shonkwiler, 5-foot-11, 165-pound, who will be throwing to Farrow and split end Mike Wiltshire, 6-foot-1, 175-pound.

On defense, the Cavaliers primary defense is a 5-2-4 with angles employed by the front five and stunting and blitzing by the inside linebackers. They will move into a 5-2 gap stack defense on the goal line and in short yardage situations.

Coach Cook and his Tigers will use a multiple formation offense which includes I backs, wing, slot, flanker, pro set and Power I. Fans will see more motion than takes place in the school halls when the "school's out" bell rings.

Defense is going to be a big factor and the Tigers defense may be tougher than trying to give a Bobcat a bath. They will use a 5-2 monster with angles, stunts and blitzing and may show some 4-3-4.

The Tigers have been hurt with key injuries to Bill Mogan, Art Davis and Jeff Pauley who will not dress for

Friday's game.

"We know that we must prevent Chillicothe from breaking the long gainer by pass or run if we are going to be successful," coach Cook stated. "Secondly, we must play very consistent offense and control the ball as much as possible. And, we also must display consistency in all phases of our kicking game."

"Not only is this important to us as an opening game but we are going against a strong AAA school and we intend to get our season started in a positive manner," Cook said.

When the offensive unit of the Tigers moves into action, it will be: Randy Happeney, center, 5-foot-8, 160-pound; Earl Stevenson, left guard, 5-foot-8, 164-pound; Bryan Price, right guard, 6-foot, 196-pound; Bo Barthelmas, left tackle, 5-foot-10, 182-pound; Chuck Wellman, right tackle, 5-foot-11, 193-pound; Tom McGuire, split end, 6-foot-2, 184-pound; Mark Albright, tight end, 5-foot-11, 175-pound; Brad Allison, quarterback, 6-foot, 158-pound; Dave Marshall, fullback, 5-foot-11, 158-pound; Greg Berrigan, 5-foot-7, 132-pound, or Mike Brudzinski, 5-foot-10, Tom McGuire. Bill Mogan and Art Davis Mogan has suffered a knee injury and Davis has a broken arm. Both captains are expected to be lost until the middle of the season.

158-pound, wingback; Frank Merrill, tailback, 5-foot-11, 155-pound.

The defensive unit of the Red and Black will consist of: Earl Stevenson, middle guard; Paul Heffelfinger, left tackle, 5-foot-10, 198-pound; Bo Barthelmas, right tackle; John Hoffman, Tiger end, 5-foot-11, 167-pound; Mark Albright, standup end; Bryan Price, strongside linebacker; Dave Marshall, weakside linebacker; Brad Allison, Tiger man; Tom McGuire, 5-year halfback; Brian Fath, strong safety, 5-foot-8, 155-pound; Frank Merrill, middle safety.

Cincy Reds Blank Astros, 3-0

HOUSTON (AP) — Although two of their regulars are sidelined with injuries, the Cincinnati Reds keep rolling along.

Playing without the services of Joe Morgan and George Foster, the Reds used the four-hit pitching of Gary Nolan and Rawly Eastwick Wednesday night to shutout the Houston Astros, 3-0.

Nolan, 12-8, hurled the first seven innings before giving way to Eastwick who picked up his 20th save of the season. Bo McLaughlin, 3-3, took the loss.

Morgan has a sprained ankle and Foster has a puffed eye which kept them out of the lineup.

Tony Perez broke a scoreless tie in the fifth inning with his 16th home run of the season, a blast into the left field seats which provided Nolan with a 1-0 lead.

Pete Rose reached base on Roger Metzger's error in the sixth and came home on Dan Driessen's double for Cincinnati's second run.

The final Cincinnati run scored in the ninth on Johnny Bench's 16th home run of the season off Astros reliever Gene Pentz.

"With Morgan and Foster out of the lineup, we all have to pull our share," said Perez.

"I wasn't looking for any special pitch. He (McLaughlin) just got a fast ball over the plate and I hit it."

"I was just happy I was able to hold them as long as I did," said Nolan. "I'm not worried about Los Angeles. We just give our best all the time. That's all we can do."

Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson was impressed with McLaughlin.

"I like McLaughlin," Anderson said. "But the real test will come next year when he's been around the league once or twice."

Anderson said Nolan "had good stuff, he just ran out of gas."

The victory was Cincinnati's 11th over the Astros in 17 games this season as Houston lost its fourth game in the last six contests.

The Pittsburgh Pirates' Richie Hebner couldn't have picked a better time to come out of his slump.

"I went 0-for-5 months," said Hebner after driving in four runs Wednesday night and leading Pittsburgh to a 6-1 victory over the floundering Philadelphia Phillies.

"Suddenly I love coming to the ballpark again," Hebner said. "Two weeks ago I was hoping to beat the Mets out of second place."

"Then, all of a sudden, it was nine games behind, eight games, seven games, and now here we are, right back in the thing."

Pittsburgh's 13th victory in 14 games has cut the Phils' National League East Division to just 4½ games. Sixteen games ago, Philadelphia, which has now lost 11 of its last 12, led the Pirates by 1½ games.

The Phillies' slump is reminiscent of 1964, when Philadelphia lost a 6½-game budge when they dropped 10 in a row and the St. Louis Cardinals finished in front.

In other NL games Wednesday, the New York Mets bombed the Chicago Cubs 11-5, Montreal swept a doubleheader from St. Louis 7-5 and 8-7, Cincinnati blanked Houston 3-0, Atlanta nipped San Diego 3-1 in 10 innings and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings.

Hebner, batting .234 going into the game, slapped a two-run single in the second and drove a two-run double into the right field corner in the third to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

Jim Rooker held the Phillies to nine hits to pick up his 13th victory in 20 decisions, while Steve Carlton, 16-6, suffered the loss.

Giants 1, Dodgers 0, 11 innings

A sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Darrell Evans in the 11th inning boosted San Francisco over Los Angeles. Gary Thomasson opened the inning with a double, took third on Mike Sadek's sacrifice bunt and came home on Evans' fly to left.

Ed Halicki, 12-14, and Gary Lavelle combined to limit the Dodgers to five hits.

Mets 11, Cubs 5

Home runs by Lee Mazzilli and John Stearns led a 16-hit barrage as New York routed Chicago. Mazzilli, in his second major league at-bat, slammed a pinch-hit three-run homer to cap a six-run ninth inning that salted away the victory for Tom Seaver, 12-10, who needed relief help from Rick Baldwin and Skip Lockwood.

Braves 3, Padres 1, 10 innings

Playing without suspended Manager Dave Bristol, Atlanta toppled San Diego by scoring two runs in the 10th inning. Rod Gilbreath singled home Willie Montanez with the tie-breaking run and errors by shortstop Hector Torrez and catcher Fred Kendall led to the Braves' final run.

Expos 7-8, Cardinals 5-7

Montreal rallied for come-from-behind victories in both games against St. Louis. In the opener, Barry Foote slapped a two-out pinch single in the ninth to knock home the typing and winning run. In thenightcap, pinch-hitter Jose Morales' double capped a two-run winning rally in the eighth. Joe Kerrigan, 2-4, was the winning pitcher in both games, hurling two scoreless innings in each.

NFL Draft Ruled Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says the National Football League must find another way to keep its 28 teams competitive because the present system of drafting college players is illegal.

In a decision that's sure to chase NFL owners and attorneys into huddles all over the country, U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant said the draft violates antitrust laws.

Bryant said the essence of the draft is an agreement among team owners "that the right to negotiate with each top quality graduating college athlete will be allocated to one team, and that no other team will deal with that person."

He called the arrangement an "outright, undisguised refusal to deal," and said it "constitutes a group boycott in its classic and most pernicious form, a device which has long been condemned."

Bryant's ruling Wednesday was made in the case of former Washington Redskins defensive back James "Yazoo" Smith, who contended in a 1970 suit that the draft stifled the marketing of his football skills.

A spokesman for the NFL in New York, Don Weiss, said the league would have no comment "until our attorneys have had a chance to study the decision and confer with us."

Jim Palmer Wins 20th

BALTIMORE (AP) — Posting a 20th victory just doesn't mean as much to a pitcher who has reached the coveted plateau in six of his last seven seasons. "It's a milestone, I guess," Baltimore ace Jim Palmer said after pitching a 3-1 seven-hitter over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night. "But when you have 19 by the end of August, you kind of feel you're going to win 20."

"People judge you on 20 wins," Palmer said while teammates drank the champagne he supplied for the occasion, "but what's the difference in winning 19 or 20? It's like a batter hitting .299 instead of .300."

"Actually, there's not much difference between winning 15 or winning 20. It depends on how many times you go out there, the breaks you get, and how the team plays. You need luck and consistency."

The 30-year-old right-hander, the American League's Cy Young Award winner in two of the past three years, said both he and the Orioles had been a might inconsistent when his record was just 6-7 through mid-June.

"Since then," he said, "I've pitched as well as I could have, except I've lost about a foot off my fast ball since pulling a back muscle on July 31."

Football Cardinals Favored In East

NEW YORK (AP) — Now if Commissioner Pete Rozelle wants to make things really interesting in the National Football Conference, he would shift a few teams around and create three red-hot races instead of the single one the NFC figures to have.

You can forget about the Central and West Divisions. Those two belong to Minnesota and Los Angeles, who will spend the regular season tuning up for the playoffs. But the East Division, ah, that's another story.

There are three super teams in the

Jack's Tavern

Takes 2nd Half

At Lansdowne

Upper Lansdowne's Wednesday Night Mens League finished second half play Wednesday with Jack's Tavern taking the honors with 107½ points, Evans Realty was second with 90 and Second National Bank of Circleville placed third with 88½ points.

This sets up a league championship match between Jack's Tavern and Evans Realty, first round winner, Wednesday. There will also be a team scramble and league dinner at the club on Sept. 22.

Here are the results of Wednesday's play: Goodin Insurance 5 — Mundy Pontiac 5; Evans Realty 10-Professional Lawn Care 8; Jack's Tavern 16½-Elsea, Inc. 1½; Nutter Excavating 9-Gy-Jo's Carry Out 3; Second National Bank of Circleville 10-Marathon Bulk Plant 6.

The weekly golf ball award went to Jack's Tavern with a low net of 97.

Damon Welch carded a 37 to take low gross A honors, Cliff Nutter was tops in B with 41 and Ted Young led C with 41.

NFC East and room for only two of them in the playoffs, assuming no other division sneaks off with the wild card berth. So, who do you leave out — Dallas, Washington or St. Louis?

Well, you can't write off Super Bowl finalist Dallas, and St. Louis seems solid. So that leaves Washington's Over The Hill Gang, over the hill.

When they've all completed the 14-week war, here's the way things ought to look in the NFC:

EAST DIVISION

St. Louis Cardinals
Dallas Cowboys
Washington Redskins
New York Giants
Philadelphia Eagles

CENTRAL DIVISION

Minnesota Vikings
Detroit Lions
Chicago Bears
Green Bay Packers

WEST DIVISION

Los Angeles Rams
San Francisco 49ers
Atlanta Falcons
New Orleans Saints

White Sox Stagger Oakland, 6-5

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The way they're playing, the Kansas City Royals could sure use a little outside help.

They got it Wednesday night from an unexpected source — the Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox, who are going nowhere this season, slowed up Oakland's express with a comeback 6-5 victory over the A's.

That left staggering Kansas City still in command of the American League West with a five-game lead over Oakland, despite a 2-0 loss to the California Angels — the Royals' fourth straight and ninth defeat in 10 starts.

"I woke up this morning and we were five games behind and in a pennant race," said Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner, who saw his team blow a five-run lead. "When I wake up tomorrow, we'll still be five games behind and in a pennant race. The only difference will be that there's one less game to play."

While Tanner was bemoaning a game that could have brought Oakland within four games of the Royals, Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog was looking for answers to his team's sudden impotence. In a month's time, the Royals have lost seven games of their once-formidable 12-game lead.

In an attempt to shake the Royals out of their lethargy, Herzog dismissed batting practice before Wednesday night's game and rearranged the lineup.

In other AL games, the New York Yankees moved a step closer to the East pennant with an 8-0 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers; the Baltimore Orioles tripped the Cleveland Indians 3-1; the Boston Red Sox stopped the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and the Minnesota Twins whipped the Texas Rangers 3-1.

The White Sox, behind 5-0 in the first inning, got fifth-inning home runs from Bill Stein and Jim Spencer and scored three runs in the eighth to pull out their victory over Oakland.

A breakdown by reliever Rollie Fingers and left fielder Joe Rudi helped the White Sox score their eighth-inning runs. Fingers, 11-10, took the mound after Paul Lindblad allowed a single by Jorge Orta leading off the inning. Fingers walked the first batter he faced, Lamar Johnson, and later allowed a sacrifice fly by Jack Brohamer, and run-scoring hits by Bucky Dent and Sam Ewing.

Dent's hit, however, was a fly ball to left field which Rudi misjudged, starting back towards the wall before reversing his field and coming in too late to make a catch. Rookie right-hander Chris Knapp, 2-1, got the victory by hurling 8 1-3 scoreless innings in relief. The A's got five runs in the first off Chicago starter Rich Gossage with a triple by Rudi scoring two of them.

Angels 2, Royals 0
Gary Ross and Dick Drago combined on a six-hitter as California beat Kansas City. Ross shut out the Royals on one hit through the first three innings before George Brett's liner off his ankle forced him to leave the game in the fourth.

Drago, 6-7, went the rest of the way against the punchless Royals, allowing only four singles.

Chiefs Top Braves, 4-3

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Bobby Cox, a hero here when the Richmond Braves last won an International League pennant in 1967, spent most of Wednesday night in the clubhouse. The Syracuse Chiefs' manager had been ejected in the sixth inning by an umpire.

But Cox was on cloud nine at game's end because the Chiefs edged the Richmond Braves 4-3 to go 1-up in the best-of-five International League baseball Governor's Cup baseball series.

It was the fourth consecutive 1976 playoff victory for the Chiefs, who routed Memphis three games to none in the semifinal series while Richmond was upsetting regular season pennant winner Rochester, 3-1.

"I'm not taking anything for granted," said Cox, as he looked ahead to tonight's second game in the playoff series against the unpredictable Braves, who stormed into a playoff berth on a late season 12-4 binge.

Cox said he plans to start righthander Ken Clay against Richmond, but the Braves' Jack McKeon was uncertain about his starter. He said it could be former major leaguer Billy Champion.

Don Gullett Not Close To Signing

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds say they are "befuddled" in negotiations with pitcher Don Gullett, their only unsigned player as the 1976 season grinds to the end of the schedule.

"We're not close at all," said Dick Wagner, club vice president who said the Reds had reopened talks with the ailing lefthander.

"The major difference is the number of years of the contract," Wagner said. "They want five years. We have offered two years. We get a very solid 'no' on any offer under five years. We don't feel we can field successful teams on five year contracts."

Jerry Kapstein, Gullett's agent, refused to discuss the details. "When we started negotiating, we agreed to respect each others' confidentiality in this. I will not comment on any terms discussed. It is not the way I do business," Kapstein said.

"We still have a difference of opinion. I'm not optimistic, but I'm not pessimistic. I would say there is a 50-50 chance he will sign."

Wagner said that when Gullett participates in the talks, he seems to be interested in remaining in the organization. When Kapstein is alone, the situation is different.

"I'd like to think he would like to play here and participate with us," said Wagner, adding that he thought Gullett owes the Reds some loyalty. He said the Reds want Gullett to stay.

"I like Don Gullett, but he's befuddled every one of us."

Kapstein said he does not believe the 26 year-old pitcher wants to leave Cincinnati and said something may break in two or three days.

Cincinnati plays its first six football games at night this season and only two of them are at home.

Wichita State sees action in seven night football games this season.

3 School Districts Plagued By Strikes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With the teachers away, the students are playing in three Ohio school districts.

Teacher strikes kept more than half the pupils away from classes Wednesday in the Parma, Meigs Local and Mad River districts. And in Meigs Local, there were just 15 students of a total enrollment of 2,800.

Negotiations in Parma were under the supervision of Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge Frank Gorman, who issued a restraining order Tuesday to halt the walkout by 1,100 teachers.

A spokesman for the striking teachers said about 95 per cent of them stayed away Wednesday.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Reflexes, intuition and business acumen should be keen now. Especially favored under day's influences: research, merchandising, all business transactions.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Day calls for your best judgment. You may feel "lukewarm" about some suggestions made, but look into them anyway. They COULD prove of value.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Fine influences! Enterprise, resourcefulness and initiative should spark the day and give you a brand new outlook on all activities.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Do not pay much attention if associates seem difficult. Some persons may be "edgy" now, so don't take unseemly action personally.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Never mind the odds against you; keep working toward your objectives. There is always a way for the imaginative, optimistic, willing worker. And you are that!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): More gains indicated than you may anticipate. But there will be SOME obstacles, so pick your way alertly and cautiously, but without anxiety.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Searching for offbeat avenues toward achievement could lead you astray now. Do the best you can in your own field and gains will be yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Patience will be needed in a few tricky spots but day, on the whole, has a big potential. Avoid undue haste, anxiety. You CAN deliver the goods.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Several chances to do better than usual. Take advantage of all worthwhile opportunities. A good period in which to revitalize methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Admonitions for this day: Don't be so overly cautious that you lose out on advantages, and don't rely on help from anyone. This is a period when your own grit must see you through.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some changes may be proposed. Study everything from an objective viewpoint. Change for its own sake could cost you ground. Think in long-range terms.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A good day for trying to push a unique program. You will get backing from those in authority — IF you make the first move.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most thorough, steady-going and down-to-earth people of the zodiac. An idealist with scholarly inclinations, you also combine the practical with the artistic; thus could make a great success in a variety of fields. You could excel in the theater as actor, producer or drama critic; in the literary world, as novelist, journalist or critic; in the professions, as scientist, educator or lawyer. You love to travel — especially by water — and are likely to meet a variety of persons, and have more than one career during an interesting, colorful life. All this, of course, if living on the higher plane. Undeveloped, the Virgoan is inclined to be self-centered, overly critical of others, self-complacent and smug. Birthdate of: Roger Maris, baseball player; Arnold Palmer, renowned golfer.

Women voted for the first time in the U.S. in the Wyoming Territory elections in 1869.

Dutch Are Fine Farmers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Guy H. Leatherwood and his wife Louise recently returned from a 16-day European Tour. Guy has written articles for the Herald on his travels to Alaska, The Holy Land and Mexico as well as articles on travels in the states. The Leatherwoods live in Ashville.

By GUY H. LEATHERWOOD
An agriculture that is as intensified as that of the Dutch people makes use of practically any thing that will produce efficiency. Land that is reclaimed from the sea is expensive land but never-the-less it is very fertile.

Dredging machinery help to construct the dikes and then the reclamation process begins. It is necessary to pump the salt water back into the sea and then it takes about eight years to get the salt out of the soil so it will grow crops.

The land is leased to farmers at about $65 per acre for periods of 45 to 99 years. The average farm is 75 to 200 acres, some smaller. It is calculated that one man and his family should care for about 60 cows.

The fields are rotated so that the maximum return in cattle feed may be obtained. This may include hay or cut fresh grass or grazing. As an example of how thorough the Dutch have these things monitored, it was noticed that each cow in a large barn was receiving fresh cut grass but also supplementary feed.

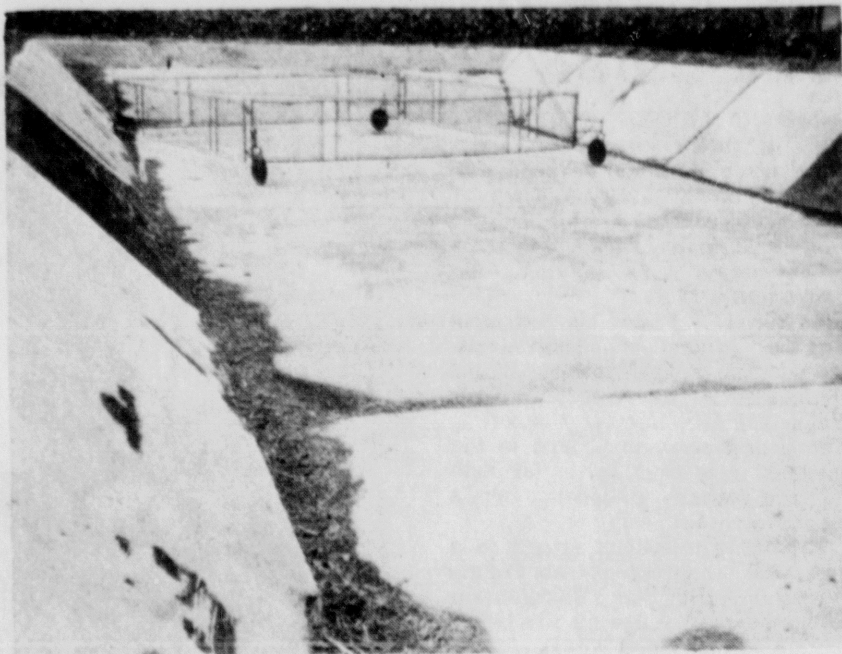

Each cow wore a little box hung around her neck. This little electronic box monitored the mechanism so that she would receive mechanically the exact diet that she would need. That is getting it down pretty fine, I would say. They do not castrate the bull calves as it has been found that they gain weight faster and do not present any unusual problems.

A sheep pen that is movable was an interesting idea. Should they desire to want to pasture a small herd of sheep but did not want to turn them out in a large pasture to roam about, they would put them into the movable pen which would remind one of a larger baby walker. The sheep were able to move the pen about the pasture as they wished as the pen moved on swivel wheels. Which way they would go most certainly would be the majority rule.

We are now traveling on a Mercedes-Benz bus since flying to the continent. This bus is manufactured for sight-seeing and has immense panoramic windows. It cost $120,000 and will last for maybe a million to 3 million miles. The German driver is just as good as the bus. How he can take that thing through narrow alleys and miss cars by a few inches is really something. I rode behind many good bus drivers over a period of about 19 years in the mail service but this driver, Fritz Fokker, is the best I have ever seen. Now in England he would be called a "coach driver." Bus drivers in England drive the two decker "trams."

Oh yes, before we go on to Germany I wanted to say that the highest point in Holland is 165 feet above sea level, the lowest 45 feet below sea level.

The autobahns or superhighways in Germany are superbly engineered. Many of the median strips have shrubs which detracts from the traffic going on the opposite direction. Our tour manager said that Adolph Hitler did only two good things for Germany. He had the autobahns constructed giving Germany a fine highway system and he took the German gold to Switzerland where it is today and the Swiss are paying huge interest payments to the West German government. He said that the gold being in Switzerland was one of the reasons that Hitler never attacked the Swiss. Also the Swiss had a defense in that they could blow the dams on 3 lakes and flood the pass where by the Germans would have had to attack Switzerland.

PASTURE PEN — The Dutch utilize a portable sheep pen to pasture small herds of sheep in large or unfenced pastures.

There are not many Volkswagens in Germany any more. They have been superseded by the Opels, Mercedes-Benz, Audi and other more prestigious cars that the booming German economy has allowed the population to enjoy. However the price of about $1.48 a gallon for gasoline keeps the size of automobiles small as it does in all Europe. The shortage of labor in West Germany has resulted in about 5 million of the 60 million inhabitants of West Germany being foreigners from mostly Central Europe.

Ninety-nine per cent of the city of Koeln (Cologne) was leveled by the 262 air raids of World War II. But it is fortunate that the beautiful cathedral was left. It is one of the most beautiful in the world.

We toured the Klockner-Humboldt-Deutz AG tractor works where the famous Deutz tractors are manufactured. The elderly officials who conducted us through the factory are extremely proud of their product — an air cooled diesel tractor that has found wide acceptance in Europe.

So many places in Europe have such narrow streets that cars are often parked on sidewalks further reducing the limited space for pedestrian traffic. Sometimes we think we have congestion here but in parts of Europe it is unbelievable.

County Receives Subsidy Payments

Criminal cost subsidy payments amounting to $99,371.90 were distributed to 62 county clerks of court during August, State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson reported today.

Pickaway County received $252.40. The payments ranged from $57.55 to the Wyandot County clerk of court to $15,146.29 to the Hamilton County clerk of court, Ferguson said.

The state paid for the successful prosecution and imprisonment of indigent persons convicted of felonies. For fiscal 1977, $2,226,000 was appropriated by the legislature to the Auditor's office for this purpose.

However, due to rising caseloads, the Auditor, with State Controlling Board approval, used nearly $735,000 of the appropriation to help meet the fiscal 1976 obligation.

Criminal cost payments totaled $2,849,253.38 in fiscal 1976, although the appropriation for that year was $2,115,000.
